ES4 and MS Divisions will wrestle round robin style to determine the top 4 teams. ES6 will square off in pools of 6 with pool placement determining the top 8 teams to go into the Gold Bracket. (see below)

Teams to look out for:

Ranger WC and the VA Patriots are both looking to fight their way into the top 4 this year. The Patriots placed 5th and Ranger WC 6th in last year's ES6 Daystar Duals. Both clubs wrestled at McDonogh Duals against tough competition just two weeks ago, which shows the strides they've made and their dedication to getting better everyday. Excited to see what they do on their home turf in VA this year.

Junior Terps teams can always be dangerous. A Terps ES6 squad made the finals last year falling just short of a title. The Terps will have 2 teams in both the ES6 and MS divisions. Terps East Coast Elite is the top seed in the ES6 div. heading into the weekend.

Team Donahoe out of Michigan is a well-known accomplished club known to produce elite wrestlers. The club has been around for nearly 15 years and was started by NCAA Champion Paul Donahoe. Team Donahoe Black is the #2 seed in the ES6 division. We are definitely excited to see what this club does. Expect them to be a tough matchup and to wrestle hard all weekend as they try to bring a title back to Michigan in their first ever Daystar Duals.

You can never forget Team Shutt. They're always in contention for the title and definitely are hungry for gold after coming up just short at McDonogh and Tyrant Duals. They'll be looking to score big points.

#3 Poquoson AA and #4 seeded Riverheads, both new additions to the field this year, are ones to keep an eye on in the ES6 div. They'll also be defending their home state.

Reaper WC out of VA seems eager to step up and prove a point as the top team in the ES4 Division. Watch out for the Reapers! Expect them to be high energy and ready for anything.

In the MS Division, these 3 returning teams all have a great shot to make a title run.

- VA Team Predator (2023 Daystar 3rd place)
- Machine Shed (2023 Daystar 4th place)
- Wolfpack WC (2023 Daystar 5th place)

Look for them all to fight hard to improve their placement from last year. Each of them have experienced wrestlers that have competed at several Tyrant tournaments. These should be great duals between these squads.

We can't wait to see it all go down!
